Looking at the News With Col. Hugh Clark

Feeders to a canal system are really more important than feeders from it, even though the latter be senators.

Russia spells the doom of capital, says Shaw, but he is a cocksure individual who will undertake to pronounce the doom of capital as Russia spells it.

Punch is celebrating its 90th birthday anniversary. It ought to live forever. William Jennings Bryan used to tell of an Irishman who was celebrating his 90th anniversary. His friends were congratulating him, but one of them pointed out that in the natural order of events he couldn't expect to live much longer. "I don't know about that," he replied. "I have been looking over the records and I find that very few men die after they are 90." No one but an Irishman could state this fact so strikingly.

Henry Ward Beecher's view of certain Socialist writers was that they "eternally sit and eternally never lay an egg." The Russian experiment is more communistic and Stalin is doing more than sitting, but it seems premature on the part of Lady Astor, M.P., and Bernard Shaw to declare the egg a good one before it is hatched or before it is laid.

From Ottawa dispatches we gather that the intention is to reorganize Beauharnois and put it on its second feet.

Minnehaha is Indian for Laughing Water. Now, who caused the diversion there?

Lots of boys can, with arms folded, ride a bicycle, but not one of them can do so without showing off.

How many people to-day remember "The Beauharnois Boy"? He was J. G. H. Bergeron who as a youth was elected federal member for that district, and who retained the title even after he came to man's estate. His last public appearance was in 1911, when he toured Canada with Hon. R. L. Borden. He spoke in French wherever there were French electors and (Continued on the Back Page)

The cutting of grain in the Vulcan district is practically over, and in many cases threshing has commenced. Harvesting so far has had perfect weather, being hot and dry, the temperature staying around 80, and sometimes more. There seems to be plenty of men for work and the going wage for stokers is $1.50 per day and board, the wage for threshing is $2.00 per day and board. Threshing is being done for 6 to 7 cents per bushel, while $1.25 per acre more or less, is the price for combining. Some very good yields have been reported on summerfallow, many 25 and some as high as 35 bushels, but on the other hand the spring plowing and stubble yields are low, some going 10 bushels and less.

Local Health Unit Writes On Infantile Paralysis

Bearing the Technical Name of Acute Poliomyelitis May be Prevalent

If there is one disease more than any other whose appearance in a community strikes dread into the hearts of parents, it is Poliomyelitis, commonly called "Infantile Paralysis." Prior to the adoption of the treatment now in use this fear was well founded, but fortunately it is possible now, with early diagnosis and treatment, to prevent not only death but permanent crippling in the majority of cases. It will be noticed that early diagnosis was stressed; that fact cannot be too frequently emphasized. The serum used cannot bring to life the nerve cells already killed, it can, if given early, prevent the action of the disease poison on those cells. There is usually a period of about 48 hours between the appearance of the first symptoms and the paralysis. In that time the doctor must be called and the serum given. The symptoms of poliomyelitis frequently resemble those of influenza and many other of the more common illnesses.

When a case of poliomyelitis is reported in the community the parents should be particularly on guard for the appearance of ill-health in their children and if such occurs should immediately put them to bed and call their doctor, regardless of what the cause of the illness may be. The more common symptoms are cold in the head, sore throat, headache, stiff or aching neck, back, arms or legs; fever, nausea and diarrhoea. It will be noted that these symptoms appear in many other diseases of childhood. Only your doctor can decide the cause.

Unfortunately at the present time we have no positive preventative treatment against poliomyelitis as we have against diphtheria, smallpox and some other diseases, but when infantile paralysis appears in the community, usually in the fall season, there are several preventative measures which should immediately be instituted. The children should be isolated as much as possible from other children. The hands should be carefully scrubbed with soap and warm water several times a day. Particularly before meals. A warm mildly antiseptic gargle should be used twice a day. Should illness appear in any child, that child should be immediately put to bed, the others confined to their yard and the doctor called.

Poliomyelitis is increasingly prevalent, it is only by the fullest co-operation of all residents that its spread can be curtailed.

SCHOOL DAYS AGAIN

The long holidays are almost over, teachers and pupils are returning to town, and another school year is upon us. Parents and pupils are fortunate in the fact that the School Board retains the same teachers from year to year. This is an advantage in every respect. The teachers familiarize themselves with the environment in which local children are brought up. They learn what to expect from the individual child and what to combat. They learn the little prejudices and peculiarities of the town and the parents, and the parents learn also the enthusiasms and qualities of each teacher. All this preliminary acquaintanceship has been laid, and teachers, children and parents should have the advantage of a harmonious, well-established start on September first.

A number of the teachers have spent part of their holidays at summer schools, adding to their store of knowledge. And all it is safe to say, have been reviewing in their minds new methods of imparting their work and new methods of interesting pupils.

Modern education is demanding, and modern teaching requires the constantly open mind. Children are better understood and cared for than in bygone days. There is more elasticity of method, more effort to vary the approach to suit different aptitudes.

Almost all the pupils have passed into a new grade, and will launch into a year of further mental development. Some will eagerly seize upon every crumb of knowledge. Some will find the upward struggle hard, and it is these who present the real problem to the teacher, who must diagnose each individual case and provide special treatment. The school records of recent years, show how intelligently the local teachers have dealt with these little pupils who do not conform to type.

Throughout the surrounding rural districts, many young teachers are entering into command of their first schools. Some are starting with confidence, some with trepidation. All will be conscientiously trying to do their best. They will have much to learn and much to unlearn. While their lack of actual experience may be a handicap, their freshness of viewpoint and youthful enthusiasm will go far to counterbalance this.

The importance of the work of these beginners in the profession, should be more generally recognized. They come very closely into touch with their little charges, and the actual school work forms only a part of their influence and responsibility. They are concerned for the safe arrival of the little folk from long distance, they must be ready with first aid knowledge. They must see that the play hours are used to best advantage and in good sportsmanship. They are confronted with an infinity of little situations which must be met by them alone, without any guiding set of rules.

That definition "A country school is a little building on a little plot where a little teacher with little training and little equipment teaches little children little things," is far from giving the country school its deserved place.

As everyone knows, there is no better training ground for self reliance and character than the rural school and the numbers of eminent students and citizens who have been the products of the "little" teacher's training, is proof that these new little teachers are capable of splendid work. But splendid work can be done only with the sympathetic encouragement of parents and with active support.

BENNETT'S MESSAGE

In his concluding message to Parliament and the people, regarding his relief plans for the future, Premier Bennett shows a strong determination to prevent needless suffering.

To that end, rather than deal through political channels, the Government has asked the provinces to suggest what public works are most urgently needed and will provide the greatest amount of employment.

"Under present conditions," said Mr. Bennett, "no true Canadian can cavil at such a programme, because it means increased employment, comfort and happiness to thousands of our citizens in the coming winter who would have had to go without the necessities of life. Nor need prudent citizens be unduly concerned over proposed expenditure; this country is solvent. If our people are assured of health, happiness and the means of livelihood, no capital disbursements, unless wantonly made, can impede our national fortunes built up by hard and intelligent working out of the vast riches which are our heritage.

Not that I would urge the people of this country to nurse unfounded hopes; anxious times are yet ahead, and hard work and patience and self denial are needed to bring good times out of them. But I hold that if we steadfastly maintain our belief in our destiny, which we do, and are prepared to meet the future with courage, which we are, then in this testing time we may fortify ourselves with the knowledge that following close upon the conditions of today will come an era of true prosperity, fore-ordained, to those who have not swerved in their faith in themselves and their country.

Mr. Bennett made it clear that the comprehensive scheme of federal undertakings would not absolve the provinces and municipalities from the responsibility for setting up local committees to deal with relief.

NO MORATORIUM

There was general relief when it was decided by the U. F. A. members and executive that there should be no moratorium for Alberta. Generous protection has been afforded needy farmers by the Debt Adjustment Act, and the operations of the Debt Adjustment Bureau have been extended to guard the interests of all farmers seeking intervention.

If a moratorium had been declared it would have been a very serious discouragement to outside investors in Alberta. Investors must have security, that they will be given protection in difficult times otherwise they would remain aloof from the province.

Creditors undoubtedly have rights and on the whole, there has been fair consideration shown by loan companies, merchants and so on to the farmer in his difficulties.

It would have struck the general public as unfair, if the U. F. A. government had decided to shield the farmer population at the expense of legitimate creditors.

WHEAT AND WAGES

Although it is undoubtedly early in the harvest season to comment on the attitude of the laborer to his hire, yet one phase at the present writing is worthy of mention. Men from every walk of life are clamoring for work at $1.00 to $1.50 per day and, according to report are giving good service. Amongst these laborers are men who in earlier, brighter days were white collar men, used to eight hour days and to a peaceful, regular routine of life. Now they are eager to get a chance to work from sun up to sundown at a smaller wage than ever was considered possible in modern times. Most of them realize that they are being paid all, or more than, the farmer can afford and they accept conditions philosophically.

To be sure there is the sprinkling of so-called communist element. An informal meeting was held last Saturday night, to stand out for $2.50 a day, but it petered out and apparently got no backing.

In the light of this present attitude, it is interesting to recall the tempests of last year. A year ago, the initial wheat payment was 60 cents and wages ran from 30 to 40 cents an acre. A pretty general wage was 3.00 a day and board and more than that, if a man was a fast worker. Yet at that, there were protests, and local people will recall the group of harvesters who demanded their $3.00 wage and denounced in forcible fashion all who were willing to go into the fields for $2.50. There was a good deal of oratory on a man's worth and so on.

This year, with wages cut from one half to two thirds there apparently is less bucking and quite as good service.

No one is readier to admit than the farmer himself, that the present wage scale is quite inadequate, but what can he do in the face of a 35 cent initial payment, and no definite prospects ahead? He can scarcely afford to have a crop or take off a crop. The farmer and the laborer and, in consequence, the small town merchant are all carrying on under difficulties.

If the relative prices of other commodities bore any relation to the prices which the farmer receives, or the laborer receives, everything would run along very smoothly. But unfortunately this is far from being so.

Have the goods which the farmer and laborer are obliged to buy, come down in proportion? Is there any necessity in the line of meat, groceries, blankets, clothing, hardware, and boots which has dropped 50 to 66 per cent, and still maintained its quality? According to statistics, a drop of 15 per cent over all the commodities is a reasonable estimate. Yet the laborer requires as much food as in the days when wheat was $1.50 a bushel and he was getting $4.50 to $5.00 a day. He needs the same outfit to go harvesting. The farmer needs the same amount of supplies, fuel, twine, machinery of all sorts. If he has to borrow money to meet expenses, have interest rates dropped in proportion to wheat?

It is freely granted that in most instances the retailer is cutting his prices to the limit of reason, content with minimum profit. But the fact remains that there is still a serious difference between what the farmer sells and what he buys. The root of the trouble lies beyond the retailer and there must be some re-adjustment before buying power is restored.

In the good old days, the country harvest was also town harvest, on the prairies. Business boomed while the harvester population was amongst us, requiring food and clothing and spending his money.

The style of these free spending old customers is badly cramped this fall, and while the small towns will no doubt get all he makes, yet this will be very much less than in previous years.

THE ELASTIC TABLE

A fast disappearing piece of furniture, which may be considered of Early Alberta period, and which will soon be hunted down as an antique, is the big home-run circular table of early ranching days. This, in the minds of many, is the finest piece of furniture ever created, and around it hovers the memory of the old democratic days of unlimited hospitality, when every travel worn stranger was invited to draw up and eat.

It is, or was, circular, seemingly of elastic circumference and actually as big as room accommodation would stand. In the centre and swinging on a pivot, was a second storey on which all the grub was piled. On the stationary lower floor were placed the plates, the knives and forks, the cup and saucer. On the upper deck in alluring array was parked the entire larder.

All need for idle table talk was eliminated, because instead of saying "please pass the so and so," it was only necessary to locate the required article, give the table a flip, and round came the sugar or pie or mashed potatoes or what have you. To sit at such a table was a never ending adventure, especially if a dozen hungry hombres also sat in. Would the pie last out, or would some other pilgrims reach out and stop it before you could wrangle it round to your own particular segment? And what about the chocolate cake?

Everyone has experienced that reluctance to ask for things—especially the third or fourth helping. But take a good table full of folks and you could twirl the top deck to your heart's content, and nobody ever noticed. It was perpetually on the move.

This capacious piece of furniture, must have had an especial charm in the old days, when everyone who arrived at a ranch, must have come a long distance with travel slow. There was always room for one more chair and one more plate, and the storey—at least in more recent days—was always bounteously laden.

With the coming of certain elegancies of life, the old home-made furniture has been relegated pretty much to the bunkhouses or demolished. There are a very few that we know of that have actually survived, but they no longer occupy that place of honor which they deserve.

They are emblematic of old ranch hospitality, and if we had our way they would have their place on Alberta's coat of arms.

TO TURN BACKWARD

Lest we forget it would be well to remind ourselves that Christianity is the basis of our moral code; that through its teachings the old Adamic code of "an-eye-for-an-eye" was changed to that of the "brotherhood of man," the fundamental principle on which the British Empire has been built. All her institutions and her very constitution are based upon it. This Christian-derived strength has permeated every part of the empire; it has created a sense of security in the minds of people steeped for ages in the lowest depths of slavery and superstition, and given them confidence in a new ideal of national life. It has made white men exile themselves for the best part of their lives to the uttermost parts of the earth so that the British flag might be respected through their sense of Christian duty. And the self-governing dominions are drawn by this same Christian magnet closer to the motherland, because in accepting the responsibility of autonomy each adopted the same principles which underlie the British constitution—the principles of true liberty and real justice in accordance with the teachings of Christ Himself.

Canada's oirle manhood, in common with the rest of the world, is being tested. There is a strain everywhere between self-interest and the interest of the community; and there is only one standard by which the strain can be lessened and relieved—the standard of Christian brotherhood, as laid down in Mr. Nesbitt's timely and opportune appeal. Nothing less will suffice. Surely if righteousness exalteth a nation it also exalteth the individual.—Municipal Review of Canada.

WHEAT POOLING

Alberta Wheat Pool members may pool any portion of their wheat or may sell any portion at current market prices. The choice is left with the individual.

Alberta Wheat Pool Elevators are operated under a public license and will handle any grain on an open market basis.

If a non-pool grower desires to pool all or any portion of his wheat he will be required to sign a Pool contract. This contract does not compel him to deliver all or any part of his wheat on pool basis. Its purpose is to lay down regulations under which the wheat is to be pooled.

See that your wheat is delivered to an Alberta Pool Elevator

PREMIER BROWNLEE'S STATEMENT:

"A complete cut-off has been made from previous years' operations and a settlement arranged as between the Pools, the Provincial Governments and the banks. Members of the Pool and farmers generally desiring to do so may, therefore, patronize the Pool elevators facilities with complete assurance that their grain will be dealt with as a separate crop and without in any way being liable for any debts or obligations of past years."

QUOTES PROPHECY OF BROWNLEE

Alberta Premier Ventures Prediction That Peace River Will Have 1,000,000 People in a Few Years

The Canadian Geographical Journal, which is entitled to the support of all thoughtful Canadians for its splendid articles on many aspects of Canadian affairs, in the current number contains an interesting and informing article on the Peace River country, discussing its resources, present position and potentialities. The writer gives a striking prophecy by the Hon. J. E. Brownlee, premier of Alberta in which he ventures the prediction that well within his own lifetime Peace River will have a farm population of 1,000,000 and an agricultural production that will equal that of all Western Canada. A prophecy of this nature is heartening in these days when Western Canadian is struggling with so many serious problems. Up in the Peace, quite evidently is a new land that has untapped resources of coal, gypsum and many metals and must come to its own and play its part in the future immense development of our great western land. The question of transportation at present holds up development but when money loosens and confidence is again restored after the long spell of pessimism and depression, the Peace River country will secure its outlets and will continue its forward march and contribute a continent of development to our Western Empire.—Milverton Sun.

BUSY SEASON MAKES DEMANDS

Save Time by Making Use of Service Furnished Through Advertising Columns

This is the time of year when housekeepers must bestir themselves. There is fruit to preserve, jam and jellies must be stored away for winter use. The harvest season with extra hands to feed means still more work, and the children must be outfitted for the approaching school season.

In meeting these requirements, the housewife finds it a distinct economy of time to scan the advertisements in the home paper, to learn where she can buy what she needs to best advantage.

The merchants in anticipation of the busy season are presenting to the public the best values possible. They are shaving their prices to meet the reduced buying power of their country customers and are prepared to give splendid service.

A revival of home canning is necessary this year. It is true economy in the long run, and in this regard the prices of sugar, fruit, certo, pickling vegetables and all the accessories of preserving are cut to meet this present outlay. Bulk goods are sold at good prices to meet the thrashing season demands. The cost of children's wear for school days is very reasonable. Do the tedious part of your shopping by studying the ads. They give valuable information to everyone who has a dollar to spend and wishes to spend wisely.

SUMMARY OF PARLIAMENT

A Few of Legislative Accomplishments of Recent Session at Ottawa

Early steps were taken to lessen the number of immigrants from foreign countries.

"Back to the land" was urged upon idle dwellers in cities who had formerly lived on the farms. As a result it is estimated that 2500 families and not less than 10,000 unmarried men are provided for.

Tariff changes to prevent the dumping of goods made in foreign countries with underpaid labor has resulted in greatly increased opportunities for Canadian workmen.

Protection has been afforded to fruit and vegetable growers.

Western farmers are given 5 cents a bushel on all export wheat.

Assistance to coal miners of both east and west was provided for. Special measures were passed under which authority is given the government to expend whatever is necessary to relieve unemployment and to support, during the coming months, the farmers in the drought-stricken areas of the Western provinces.

A reduction in ordinary expenditure was effected and steps taken to increase the revenue.

The report of the minister of Labor revealed the information that of the $20,000,000 voted by parliament at the special session last September $15,000,000 had been expended and that thousands of men had been given employment that otherwise would have been idle.—Brampton Recorder.

FORMULATE PLANS AT EDMONTON

Debt Adjustment Bureau Extends Operations; Relief Work at Once in Needy Municipal Districts

Consideration of farm relief and farm indebtedness were two major matters which came before the conference of Provincial and Dominion U.F.A. members and the U.F.A. executive which was held in Edmonton last week.

At that Conference there existed a certain handicap, owing to the fact that the Federal Government had not indicated what funds would be made available to the Province or what the relief work would be. However certain decisions were arrived at.

In the municipalities where need is most urgent, provision is being made to carry out road work plans to provide employment and income. It is expected that the larger Federal plan will provide extensive road work through all areas of the Province where need exists, while highway construction will provide employment for the relief of the transient unemployed.

In the matter of farm indebtedness the desirability of a general moratorium was discussed, but the extension of the power of the Debt Adjustment Bureau was considered preferable. A moratorium merely postpones action, there is no reduction of capital debt, and with interest accumulating the end of the period often sees conditions more serious than at the beginning.

The Debt Adjustment Bureau is in position to give individual debtors all the protection of the moratorium if necessary, while at the same time, providing means of actual adjustment between debtor and creditor.

By arrangement between creditor and debtor the Bureau is enabled to adjust matters reducing indebtedness where possible and bringing about relief. A farmer should not delay his appeal to the Debt Adjustment Bureau until his property has been seized and foreclosures instituted. If he has financial difficulties he should write to the Debt Adjustment Bureau of Calgary and state his troubles as fully as possible. Then there is every hope that he will be afforded relief. Unless he himself communicates with the Bureau, he cannot expect help.

There are from 20,000 to 30,000 cattle in the Forest Reserve lying between the area west of Crossfield and the Crows Nest.

King Amanullah of Afghanistan was arrested by the Swiss police when they saw him climbing in over the balcony at his own villa.

The Rocky Mountain Forest Reserves lying between the main line of the C.P.R. and the Crows' Nest will be closed to fishing and camping on account of fire hazard.

Workers on the trans Canada highway through Northern Ontario will be paid at the rate 30 cents an hour for an eight-hour day. They will be assessed 75c to $1.00 for rations.

PAY SMALL BILLS TO EASE BUSINESS

Small Bills are Important to Small Business. Be Prompt

It is undoubtedly true, says The Courier, Cranbrook, that some of the reasons for the long duration of the present business depression is the decreased purchasing power of the masses. Decreased purchasing power means that the people have no ready money to spend for either the necessities or the luxuries of life.

This scarcity of ready cash among those whom we call the "middle class" could be relieved somewhat if those concerned and individuals who are in a liquid financial condition or who enjoy a bank credit would use their resources to pay all bills promptly.

Bills rendered for repair work, maintenance and all other work involving direct labour as well as other incidental expenses should be paid upon receipt of the invoice instead of delaying payment until settlement is requested in some other way. By direct labour, we mean plumbing work, carpentry, electrical work, printing jobs, garage bills, and the like. These should have a preference by being paid upon completion of the work or service.

In many cases the little fellow does not dare dun his big customers for fear of offending them and losing their future business. And the big fellow who could well afford to pay these small bills promptly, holds them up under the mistaken idea that the money is not needed right away, or he feels that the bill is too small to be bothered with.

The bill that seems small to the big fellow is in reality large to the little fellow. Not getting the money for his labour, he will be unable to buy clothes and other necessities for his family and the family is forced to make the old things do. The natural consequence is that the retail stores register a decline in sales.

The prompt payment of bills as here advised is not a cure-all, but if put into practice by many who are able to make prompt payments there is no question that it would be a factor in hastening the approach to a normal business condition.

The last meeting of the Eastway W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Cockwill. Twelve ladies were present and Mrs. Lewis presided. The roll call "What your native place is noted for" proved very interesting. The next meeting to be at Mrs. M. P. Marshall's on August 27th.

ARMADA NOTES

We had the pleasure of seeing a photograph recently of Mr. Morrison and a couple of ladies—who are they? Hal Connelly's tonsils were removed on Friday August 21, at the Vulcan municipal hospital—his condition is entirely favorable.

Mrs. Lawrence of Calgary, who has been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Howell, returned to her home on Friday last week.

The first load of 1931 wheat received at this point, grading No. 1 Northern and weighing 62 lbs. to a bushel, was delivered to the U.G.G. elevator by Mr. A. Bennett.

Grace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Howell, had her tonsils removed at the Vulcan Municipal Hospital on Saturday of last week. The operation was successful.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Hedges and J. Hedges and Miss Francis Moen were visitors in Lethbridge Thursday afternoon.

The C.P.R. and the girls softball team played a four inning game, the score being 7-1 in favor of the girls. The game was called on account of darkness.

The Ladies' Aid—held a delightful afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. Williamson in honor of Mrs. G. Elliot, who is leaving for Nanton. Games were played, followed by a presentation by Mrs. Manning. Mrs. Elliot thanked the ladies for their remembrance after which a very tasty lunch was served.

On Monday evening the members of the girls softball team met at the home of Mrs. J. Martin and surprised Mrs. Crum who left on Thursday for Pincher Creek. A very enjoyable evening was spent in games, after which Mrs. Adams presented Mrs. Crum with a lovely hand-embroidered boudoir pillow. Mrs. Crum thanked those present in a few well chosen words. This was followed by a very dainty lunch served by the girls.

LOOKING AT THE NEWS

made a great hit with its humorous sallies.

Calvin Coolidge says the time will never come when the rich alone will pay the taxes. Will the time ever come when the public generally will realize this?

The word Beauharnois means "beau locked, but not until after some of tiful harness," an appropriate name for a power proposition. The beautiful harness remains and the stable is the horse-power was stolen.

Let joy be unconfined! School opens in a few days.

Edgar Wallace, the novelist, has gone in for horses and now owns a string of them. He will learn something more about them than he did when he wrote "Grey Timothy" in which he says, "The horse lashed out savagely with a hind leg, but the nimble trainer was out of reach." A horse does not do that sort of thing. When he kicks he makes it a two-some. There was an artist once who painted a horse rising from the ground hind feet first. That sort of thing is not done either in the equine kingdom, but novelists and artists cannot be expected to know everything.

Weather forecasts cannot safely be made even by meteorologists for more than a few days in advance. There was one in the service in Chicago who undertook to do it, but the weather failed to live up to his forecasts. He resigned in disgust and left the service. He said the climate there did not agree with him.

Talking about weather predictions, there was a weather prophet in Canada many years ago. His real name was Mowat, but his pen name was Moses Oates. He used to get out an annual calendar, and never dreamed to essay the role of prophet, but one day a friend of his, looking over the copy for his forthcoming calendar, designated after each date the sort of weather that might be expected for that day. It was published and turned out so well that he continued it. The name of Moses Oates was known all over Canada. One year everything went to the bad. He had predicted a dry, warm summer and it turned out to be the coldest, rainiest season we had had for years. Toward the end of August an Indian was arrested and lodged in Brantford jail, charged with indecent assault. As luck would have it, his name was Moses Oates. J. R. Cameron, then editor of the Hamilton Spectator, made this editorial comment:

Yes Sir, We Can Tell the World Through the Printed Word

BANK CREDIT FOR BINDER TWINE

Premier Brownlee when in Ottawa discussed with the Dominion Government and the Banks the question of credit being made available to farmers where necessary for the purpose of purchasing binder twine. Arising out of the conference at Ottawa, the banks having superintendents in Alberta discussed with Premier Brownlee on August 11th the question of credits for this purpose, and as a result the GOVERNMENT WOULD ADVISE ALL FARMERS REQUIRING BINDER TWINE TO MAKE APPLICATION TO THEIR BANKS FOR CREDIT FOR THAT PURPOSE, EVEN IF AN UN-SUCCESSFUL APPLICATION HAS ALREADY BEEN MADE.

It is important that applications be made immediately.

ISSUED BY THE GOVERNMENT OF THE PROVINCE OF ALBERTA FOR THE INFORMATION OF THE PEOPLE OF THE PROVINCE.
